

THE GLEICHEN CALL

VOLUME 40 NO. 41

Authorised as second class mail. GLEICHEN, ALBERTA, WEDNESDAY DECEMBER 24, 1947

SUBSCRIPTION $2.00 PER YEAR

Canon J. W. House Dies Suddenly While in Ottawa

Thursday morning word was received from Ottawa that Canon John Wheeler House had died suddenly early this morning. Word of the passing of the Canon was a great surprise to his friends since few if any knew he suffered from a heart condition.

Canon House was 57 years of age and just before he left for the east in November had been made a Canon. He had gone to Ottawa after being appointed acting superintendent of the Indian School Administration for the Church of England in Canada. For the past several years he had been principal of the Old Sun Indian School on the Blackfoot Reserve.

Born in England he received his early education at Darwen School, Preston, England and came to Canada in 1912. In Saskatoon he attended Emmanuel College and at the University of Saskatchewan received his Bachelor of Arts. After teaching at the Indian School and was traveling missionary for a large area there. Later he was moved to Unity, Sask. and in 1930 was appointed principal of Old Sun School just south of Gleichen.

Canon House was a member of the Masonic Lodge and in 1941-42 was Grand Chaplain of the Grand Lodge of Alberta.

Canon House was very well known in Indian headquarters as a returned veteran from World War I. He was an infantry sergeant in France and came back to England in 1918 and passed his officer course with high standing.

At the start of World War II he joined the 2nd Battery as Battery Captain under Major G. H. Gooderham and was held very high in esteem by all Battery members for his very good training and administration ability.

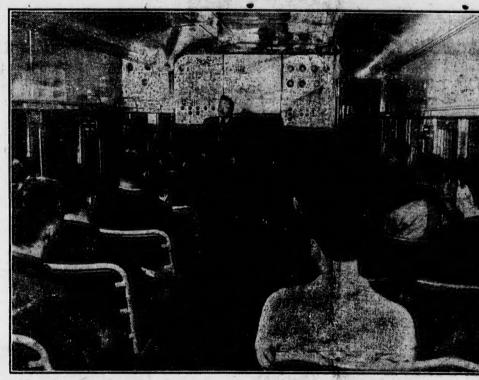

In June 1946 he assumed command of the 122 Battery when the old 2nd Battery was re-designated to Light Anti-Aircraft. Major "House" continued his duties as commandant until retired on moving to Ottawa.

Surviving are his widow, Violet; Two daughters, Mrs. W. Jones and Shirley at home; two sons, Mr. John and Mr. Peter; his brother and Harold (Doe) at Kingston, Ontario; University; his mother, Gleichen; three sisters, Mrs. Blackmore, Bournemouth, England, Mrs. Illing, Dartington, England and Mrs. Jones in Germany. Wherever he may be of Hyde, England, Tom in Michigan, and Harold at Penetonic, D.C.

Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. at St. Paul's, H. B. Regis, Anglican Bishop of Calgary in the Pro-Cathedral Church of the Redeemer, Calgary. Interment was made in the Union Cemetery in Calgary.

After six days of hard work the roofing being put on the Recreation Centre was completed Friday at noon in a small sized bazaar, and as the last night of the bazaar the stores closed. For days the boys talked about celebrating when they finished putting on the roof. They must have celebrated because the Centre was a quiet and peaceful Friday night, a moon and a dark Saturday. It was noticeable. For days and weeks there had been activity. The noise of the power driven saw, the pounding of hammers and the shouting of men from the roof were great, and as the last day something or other had ceased. Mr. Bolinger who has been supervising the job for several weeks looked forlorn Friday afternoon as he was out of job. He did not know what his job had gone to and didn't think the community had anything to do with the work stoppage. Saturday the grand start came leading to the walking room where great delight and all can take in great delight. No more will it be necessary to climb ladders or leap wildly to get the walking room. While the construction crew have been holding the ice making boys have had no time to do their work. They have hauled a great many tanks of water from a slough and have made much progress in making ice.

Men without pants are at the mercy of the vagrant winds of fortune. Men with pants and determination to follow them have control of their destiny. The choicer prizes that life has to offer go to those who know them.

SAFETY CLASS

A safety instruction car of the Canadian Pacific Railway contains the latest information for railway employees and the public informed of railway safety precautions has arrived in the west at the start of a five-week tour extending as far as Victoria. The travelling classroom, assigned to duty in the prairie and Pacific regions, is equipped with a complete railway equipment, signal panels, a loud speaker system and other instruction aid. It is under the supervision of F. L. Goulet, newly appointed general safety agent for the C.P.R. in the west, who is here shown addressing a group of employees in the car.

Christmas Thoughts 1947

BY REV. W. E. SIEBER

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

While the charm of the season fills our hearts with gladness and goodwill the customary greeting: "Merry Christmas, a dirge, softly, from the tongue.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

Only the modern tendency to exploit this spirit of good will for the purpose of financial gain is to be deplored.

We should find the meaning of

Christmas is casting its magic spell of good-will all around and lies in a linden of refreshing dew upon the heart of a joyful world.

Nothing statesman, politician nor army general can build the bridge to span the chasm created by the hatreds of war, national pride and racial prejudice. That bridge must be built by the spirit of Christ and the hearts of all men.

The Wise Men of old, in their search for the divine revelation of true living, overcame natural boundaries, racial pride and suspicion, and moved into the land of the much hated Jew to seek God's Chosen One among the despised race of the earth.

They found a Babe, born of that despised race, the purest, most perfect, and yet destined to become the Saviour of the human race.

And like the shepherds and Wise Men, we also carry at the manger of Bethlehem, love and to walk the earth down life's path of spiritual companionship with Jesus and to conform to the standards of human relationships set by Him, the Divine Master of Life, God's greatest gift.

The real meaning of Christmas is not in the giving of numerous gifts, although the season's good-will are genuinely Christian and always commendable.

An Important Task

MUCH HAS BEEN SAID IN THE PAST concerning Canada's role as interpreter in relations between Great Britain and the United States. Closely and truly, we are to say, we have, at the same time, in a position to have a comprehensive knowledge of the problems and the opportunities of our neighbors in the United States. During the war, methods of diplomacy, like many other of our established institutions, underwent changes, since leaders often found it necessary to disregard the usual procedure in order to meet the emergency. There was some doubt then, as to whether diplomacy would regain its former importance in the settling of world affairs, but now it is apparent that there is still need for diplomatic dealings in international relations, and in this, as in many other things, Canada has assumed an increasingly important place since the war.

Important Task For Canada Now

Sir Shulhaven Redfern, who recently returned to England after spending some years in Ottawa, has expressed the opinion in a recent article that Canada's diplomatic task today lies in helping to maintain closer of friendship between Great Britain and the United States, in view of the rising of force of anti-democratic feeling in some parts of the world. The writer points out that it is of supreme importance to Canada at this time to do all she can to promote understanding between the two Western democracies, and to prevent the growth of mutual distrust between them. To successfully carry out this task, he believes, require "all her resources of skill and understanding, all her machinery of conciliation, all her imagination, and the exercise of constant vigilance. Above all it will require inexhaustible patience."

Should Profit From Mistakes

Certainly, if we are to profit from the lessons of the past, we should know the importance of unity among friendly nations in unsettled times. Had the German leaders known that the small nation of Western Europe, Great Britain, had been moved to take action together against Hitler, the last war might not have begun. Even if it had taken place, events would have taken a very different course had there been prompt and powerful opposition such as could have come, had all the democratic countries been united in purpose at that time. We have proved the value of a "unite and conquer" and the lesson of that war, which should not be forgotten. Agreement and unity of purpose between the great Western democracies could, without doubt, be a powerful factor in preserving world peace, and in helping to maintain that relationship Canada has an important and exacting task.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

Truth is the summit of being, justice is the application of it to the world. — Emerson.

All Truth is from inspiration and revelation—from Spirit, not from flesh.—Mary Baker Eddy.

Errors always address the past, truth always looks to the future; such man's intrigue, and only addresses the understanding, and the concern of the world.

Half the misery in the world comes of want of courage to speak and to hear the truth plainly, and in a spirit of love.—H. H. Stowe.

Truth is one of the most powerful things in the world, and when they both go together they cannot easily be withstood.—Cudworth.

Religious truth, touch what points of it you will, has always to do with the soul, the heart, and government of it, and is, of course, inimitable in its reach.—Hitchcock.

Model Dairy Farm As Memorial To Soldier Son

SPokane, Wash.—A Spokane architect and his wife have given their son, they have started construction on a 100-acre 0009 dairy farm at Chatterton, Wash., as a memorial to their only son, killed in action on Okinawa.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Rusape said profit from the 280-acre farm will be used to help worth boys there, and the farm will be used to help them. It will be equipped with modern machinery, a six-room house, a 44-by-80-foot barn, farm shop, and a shed and will be used in two ways.

"We planned this type of memorial to our son, George, because we thought this type of project could best perpetuate his memory," Rusape said.

The Russaps regard green as a sacred color and for that reason it is used in contrast chiefly to prayer rugs.

SELECTED RECIPES

CHOCOLATE NUT LOAF

(5 eggs)

2½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ cups granulated sugar
1½ teaspoons baking powder
1 cup butter or other shortening
2 cups sugar
5 eggs
1 cup broken walnut meats
1 cup unsweetened chocolate, melted
1 cup sour cream or buttermilk
½ cup milk
Sift flour once, measure, add soda and salt, and sift together three times. Add butter, sugar, eggs, and gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Beat eggs until very light and fluffy. Add flour, alternately with milk. Add nuts and chocolate, and mix well. Pour into a greased pan, 13½x2½ inches, in oven at 325 degrees F. for 25 minutes. Turn out on a wire rack, and let cool at least 1 hour, or overnight weight of 1½ pounds.

"This excellent chocolate cake may be baked in other ways, too, such as in a 9-inch round pan, or in a 9x13x2½ inch pan in oven at 325 degrees F. for 35 minutes.

CHOCOLATE CARAMELS

1 cup sugar
¾ cup corn syrup
½ cup melted unsweetened chocolate
1 teaspoon salt

½ cup light cream.

Combine corn syrup, chocolate, salt, and ½ cup cream. Place in a double boiler and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue boiling until a small amount of the mixture will set in cold water (242 degrees F.), stirring constantly. Add ½ cup cream and boil slowly until a small amount of the mixture will set in cold water (242 degrees F.), stirring constantly. Pour into slightly buttered and greased pan and let cool until cold.

Let stand until cool, then cut into ¾-inch squares, and turn on a wire rack, turning top-side up. Cut in squares, in full length of long blade. Let stand in cool place to dry. Makes 40.

Oregon Plans To Heat Highway By Hot-Water

PORTLAND, Ore.—A highway heated by hot water is proposed, which would be the first State highway Commission.

The project involves a 510-foot section of highway on the east edge of Klamath Falls.

Natural hot water wells in the area would be tapped to pipe hot water through the pavement and prevent it from icing.

WINS CATTLE CHAMPIONSHIP PLUS HUSBAND
Kathryn Ann McKinley, 21, of Frankfort, Ill., has been exhibiting cattle 11 years in quest of a U.S. champion title in the show ring. They are shown with Kathryn's championship Hereford steer, "Chicago", at the current International Livestock Show in Chicago. The couple plan to wed, rent a farm and raise cattle.

TOOK 85 MINUTES TO LAND—Toronto fisherman, Major James E. Hohn, displays the 51-pound fresh sea-run salmon he caught at Port Harding, B.C., with a light glass rod in 85-minute battle.

FUNNY And OTHERWISE

Visitor: "You've certainly got a lot of pep for a man who's over a hundred. How do you get that way?"

Old inhabitant: "I just decided, yes, I'm dickerling with two or three cereal companies for my indoctrination."

Husband—I passed Harris in the street yesterday, and he refused to shake hands. I think it's his equal, I guess.

Wife—Well, you certainly are his equal! He's nothing but a wise guy, brainless, conceited idiot!

Wife: "Do right and fear no man."

Husband: "Do not write and fear no woman."

A farmer's wife sold her surplus butter to a grocer in a nearby town. One morning the grocer said to her, "I'm sorry, but your butter was underweight last night."

"Now, fancy that!" she replied. "Please, mind my weight," she said, and handed the pound of sugar you sold me."

Foreman: "Don't you see that sign, 'No hands wanted'?"

Applicant: "I do, but I really ask for a job—just a job, and the pound of sugar you sold me."

"George," remarked a friend, "you have a wife, but the life of yours is a remarkable one, since she certainly has a will of her own."

"George," mused George, "and let me tell you Harry, I'm the sole beneficiary."

A woman was carrying a drinking horn for her dog and the shopkeeper asked if she would like one with the inscription: "For My Husband."

"It really doesn't matter," the woman replied. "My husband never drinks water. And my dog can't read."

A woman was carrying a drinking horn for her dog and the shopkeeper asked if she would like one with the inscription: "For My Husband."

"That's so! What is her belief?"

"She believes she can wear a size 5 shoe on a size 7 foot."

Mrs. Brown was turning out her wardrobe and putting on one side this hat and fur-trimmed coat.

"Would you like my last winter's hat, Mary?" she asked her daughter.

"Oh, thank you, Mrs. Brown!"

Mary answered. "That's the one my boy friend likes me best."

"Visiter to Junior: "Mr., what's the name you are, sitting there so quietly?"

"Junior." "I always sit quietly when someone puts money in my bank and then I say, 'Thank you.'"

John: "Has your son's childhood dream been realized?"

Bill: "One of them. When my mother combed my hair I used to wish I didn't have any."

"What is your son going to be when he passes his final examination?"

"An old man."

In a tight-fisted congregation the hat was passed around on Sunday and the man did not smile.

The pastor cast his eyes heavenward and said, with a great deal of reverence, "I thank Thee, Oh Lord, that I got my hat back."

Report Shows Crime Increase In Canada

Drunken Driving, Theft, Arson Cases Swell Total To 24,512.

OTTAWA.—The cattle rustler is a fast-disappearing species on the Canadian crime scene, but that's safe-cracker, too, is still in evidence.

This was revealed in the annual report of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, tabbed in Commons by Commissioner J. C. MacLennan.

Official figures from the R.C.M.P. files show that a total of 24,512 cases—incidents of breaking, entering, and theft, theft of motor vehicles, safe-burglary, driving a car while intoxicated; robbery, and arson.

The report added, however, that there had been a drop in cases of attempted murder and manslaughter, as well as a sharp decline in cattle rustling. The number of safe-blowing had registered a jump of 17 over the previous year's mark, showing 3,112 cases, from 2,692 to the end of March this year.

The sharp nose of two R.C.M.P. trappers—dogs—named "Telly" and "Hector" has accounted for 1,000 animals along with their 300-foot lead from a safe-cracking job in the pool elector at Stranraer, Sask.

This was also revealed in the report.

Safe-crackers were reported about 20 miles from the border where Baker and his band of 100 men had registered their 1,000th safe.

Baker, a P. I. with a well-known criminal, according to the R.C.M.P.—hiding in patches of brush and long grass.

The guard dog, "Ignatz," meanwhile had sniffed out an old son of bear near Baker's hideout. After being shot, the animal was found with a bullet in its head, a bottle of explosive, and a detonator.

Baker received two years less a day and Johnson got a five-year sentence.

NOW WELL SUPPLIED

TORONTO.—It was like lightning striking the same place twice. Gordon Haughton waited a year and a half for a new car, and when he finally got it, he was given a 1946 model.

He had planned his canoe on the Arctic Ocean, won a gold medal at a full-blown Indian wedding and saw the trail of the Arctic expedition.

Alma, young University of Alberta student took them, and made the trip. The car, a 1946 model, which Haughton is resting in Vancouver, covered 6,000 miles of the Northwest Territories and the Yukon.

He had paid the typewriter and the clarinet, but the 10-cent piece in his pocket is not the same one he started out with.

He was a band leader in Valentine's deckhand on a Mackenzie River sternwheeler, a wood-chopper at Fort Yukon, a hod carrier in Whitehorse.

He paddled his canoe on the Arctic trail, was honored guest at a full-blown Indian wedding and saw the trail of the Arctic expedition.

"I wouldn't trade it for a bachelor pad," he said. "I've got a safe, a typewriter and a 10-cent piece. I'm going to visit my grandparents here. Later he plans to buy a book."

He has given up his clarinet and 10-cent piece may go to the Orient with him.

GOW FLOWN NORTH

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T.—Canada's farthest north gold-mining town is enjoying fresh milk without the benefit of air freight. Sixty thousand cans of fresh milk were flown in from Vancouver 672 miles north of Edmonton, aboard a commercial aircraft. Fresh milk sells for 65 cents a quart here.

It's new... right there when you need it

Now—for extra-fast baking—it's New Fleischmann's Royal Fast-Rising Dry Yeast. No need to keep it in the icebox—it stays fresh in the cupboard for weeks—right there when you need it, just dissolve according to directions. Then use as fresh yeast. If YOU BAKE AT HOME—you can always keep a large supply ready for "hurry-up" baking—more delicious baking results. Order Fleischmann's Royal Fast-Rising Dry Yeast from your grocer today.

Grandmother Knows What Brings Quick Relief

Since her own childhood grandmother has had Mr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Is it any wonder that she has had this syrup for so long? It is a safe and reliable medicine.

Mr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine
55¢ Family size 3 times as much 75¢

